ABSTRACT

An insurance task processing method, an insurance task processing program, a computer-readable recording medium recorded with the insurance task processing program, and an insurance task processing system, for recommending a subscription to insurance during transactions in the electronic commerce while enabling to objectively prove an occurrence of accident, to thereby protect transaction-involved parties.